1. Students of the secondary school grades, that is, about 16-18 years old, have for some time been receiving first-aid instruction. Recently instruction in aircraft recognition has been started in these first-aid classes.
 2. Compulsory first-aid courses for women have been organized in Budapest. Two-hour classes are held twice a week. Though these courses are nominally "voluntary", people who do not attend are liable to a fine of 300 forints.
 3. During the last two months a number of air-raid sirens have been erected in the streets in Budapest. These sirens do not look new; and it is possible that old air-raid sirens from World War II have been re-erected. The air-raid sirens are fixed to lattice iron pylons approximately 20 feet high.
